Dead in the Street.

A CITY INCIDENT.

Under the lamp light, dead in the street,
Delicate, fair, and only twenty,
There she lay,
Face to the skies,
Starved to death in a city of plenty,
Sprung by all that is pure and sweet,
Passed by busy and careless feet,
Hundred bent upon folly and pleasure;
Hundreds with plenty, and health and leisure—
Lament to speed Christ's mission below,
To teach the erring and raise the low—
Plenty, in charity's name, to show
That life has something divine and holy.

Beastly charms—classical brow,
Delicate features look at them now;
Look at her lips—once they could smile;
Eyes—well, never more shall they beguile;
Never more, never more shall they beguile;
A blush shall bring to the saintlike face.
She has found, let us hope and trust,
Peace in a higher and better place;
At rest, despite of all still, I ween,
Joy of some heart she must have been.
Some fond mother, proud of the task,
Has stooped to singe each delicate curl;
Some vain father has bowed to ask
A blessing for her, his darling girl.
Heed to think as we look at her there,
Of all the tenderness, love, and care,
Lonely watching and sore heart-ache,
All the agony, burning tears,
Joy and sorrows, hopes and fears,
Breathed and suffered for her sweet sake.
Blessed picture a home afar,
Out where the delicate and pure
Out where life-giving breezes blow,
Far from these sodden streets, foul and low;
Fancy will picture her better place;
And an aged couple dead to night—
An aged couple, broken and gray,
Kneeling beside a bed to pray;
Or bring awake a night to mark
For a thing that may come in the rain and the dark.
A hollow-eyed woman, with weary feet,
Better than the delicate and sweet,
Whom they cherished so,
Lies this night, lone and low,
Dead in the street.
